July 18, 2012

411US.info has added Daily Weather, a Daily Quote, and a Daily Photo to its website, www.411US.info. The site connects people to information daily on the Internet in a clear and organized way.

The Daily Weather presents a quick summary of the current and future weather at the top of the page from the user-specified zip code. Whether biking, hiking, jogging, or doing yard work, the user can see current and future weather at a glance on 411US.info. Traveling? Change the zip code to a destination, and their local weather appears. 411US.info links to weather.com for summary and detailed weather forecast.

The daily quote brings a new inspirational, motivational, or just plain interesting quote every day to help one get the day started. It changes once a day, every day from the quotebuddy.com feed.

With all three, users can see the weather, quote and photo provided daily in feeds by top Internet websites. These added features provide users additional reasons to visit 411US.info every day.

With 411US.info, anyone can find information on demand includingí

- É News, Weather, and Sports ô Both National and Local

The site is useful for everyone from beginners to power users.

Beginners, who may have little Internet experience or do not feel comfortable navigating the web, will welcome the categorized, well-organized menu. It creates a user-friendly, guided Internet experience for getting information.

At the opposite end of the spectrum, executives and power users can utilize 411US.info to quickly look up information every day, hour, and minute. The site provides these users with a powerful tool to efficiently retrieve information. For these power users, 411US.info serves as a sophisticated, always-on-top bookmark system, allowing rapid movement from one website to another.

For travelers and road warriors, 411US.info provides quick access to travel sites. These users can also look up local information at their destination location, including news, weather, and events. When away from home, travelers can change the zip code to their home zip code to keep up with what's happening in their hometowns.

411US.info is a worthy reference tool for students and teachers. With 411US.info, one can quickly look up the definition of an unfamiliar word, or find a Wikipedia or encyclopedia article on an interesting topic. College students can also use the site to keep up with local news back home.

Jerry Guzi, founder of 411US.info, said, "I created the site to provide a clear, clean, and organized way to retrieve information, on demand. I wanted to provide an information menu that reaches everyone in every state, county, city and town and zip code in the U.S. and works to find what we want, when we want it."

In addition, 411US.info and the associated linked sites can (with the help of Google Translate!) be translated into French, Italian, German, Spanish, or Japanese ó useful for users whose primary language isn't English ó for example: visitors from other countries while in the U.S.

411US.info is for everyone. Anyone can use 411US.info and find out what it feels like to have the best information available on the web at their fingertips in a neatly organized and easy-to-use way.
